1 | bento

1.1 | research

- japanese oldest historical record: the Nihon Shoki, 720 A.D.
 - mentions bento boxes as a way to have portable food, used especially while hunting
 - * specifically hawking, meaning hunting with the aid of a trained bird
- the word itself came from a military commander, Oda Nobunaga (born 1534)
- bento becomes necessary when you can't go home / to a designated eating location for meals
 - like soldiers, when the bento was invented
- became no longer about necessity
 - started being brought regularly to theaters
