- what did you learn about or research last fall that stuck with you the most?
 - how conne
- what is still relevant today?

justice is defined by the constitution, which is shaped by communicating and influence man this is gonna be fun.
who th is this guy

1.1 | course overview

this won't be linear

we ended at: - civil war and reconstruction 1861 - some things have defined years, and others have "fuzzy" years - way in the past we have colonial period, 1610s - revolution ends in 1783 - founding father business - america starts in 1789 - antebellum period -> 1861

- colonial/rev 1610s
- rev ends 1783
- america starts 1789
- national
- antebellum
- civil war
- reconstruction
- industrial rev
- ww1
- depression
- ww2
- cold war
- mccarthyism
- vietnam war
- korean war

we embody imperialism, exactly what we fought against.
paper research paper goes in the middle! case studies syllabus paper
we are gonna go through chronologically, but not necessarily linearly

1.2 | the big themes

- capitalism, democracy: combustible or compatible
- american state: oppressive or agent of liberation
- impact of the intersection of foreign and domestic spheres
